

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1744.

Yesterday arriv'd a Mail from Holland.

Grodno, November 11.

WHEN all Things were going on in the most amicable Manner possible, and we had the greatest Hopes of seeing the Dyet end as peaceably as it began, an Accident has happen'd of a most extraordinary Kind, which has thrown all Things into such a Confusion, as nobody can foresee the End

The Thing happen'd thus; one of the Nuncios to the Dyet rose up the other Day, and made a long Speech; the Clof of which, he accus'd himself of having receiv'd a Bribe from the Agent of a certain neighbouring Prince, of 350 Ducats, in order to render the Deliberation of the Dyet unsuccessful; but that, upon Reflection, he was sorry for it with all his Heart; and re- solv'd not to betray his Country, he had brought the Dyet with him, which he was resolv'd to leave to the Disposition of the Dyet. The Name of this penitent Nuncio is M. Wilczewski, whose Speech was heard with the utmost Attention, and most of the Members Credit to it; the rather, because he deliver'd it in an Air of the greatest Sincerity, and even with Tears in his Eyes. When he saw the Impression it had made, he stood up again, and told the Dyet, that he was resolv'd not to do his Duty by Halves, and therefore was oblig'd, however unwilling, to declare, that the Nuncios, whom he nam'd, and even some Senators, were brib'd as well as he. This Story did not go down quite so well as the first; on the contrary, it rais'd a great Noise in the Assembly. The Par- ticulars stood up, and deny'd the Charge with the greatest Assurances. Most of them asserted, that they were very little conversant with the Foreign Min- isters, who were suppos'd to have corrupted them; and the Nuncios protest'd that they did not so much as know the Persons who were said to have brib'd them; all of them agreed, in demanding, that this Affair be examin'd to the Bottom, before any other Bu- siness was proceeded on; offering to surrender them- selves Prisoners, in order to abide the Judgment of their Country, in case the Charge could be made out against them; and insisting, if it could not, that M. Wilczewski be punish'd with Death, for publishing a false In- sultation, which might be attended with so many bad Sequences. The Court seems to have taken the Nun- cio Wilczewski under its Protection, by honouring him with a Gold Key, and declaring him one of his Ma- jesty's Chamberlains. But the Affair has certainly had a bad Effect, since the Chamber of Nuncios has not met the Senate, as it ought to have done, on the 10th, and at present, we know not when it will, but are impatiently to see the Issue of this strange Busi- ness, which has produced as great a Spirit of Clamour and Tumult, as there was before of Order and Unani- mity.

Nov. 7. After having seen the Campaigns of the Seat of War, for some Months, we are recover'd from the Apprehensions of seeing a Battle fought. The Night, between Saturday and Sunday Part of the Austrian Army actually decamp'd; and on Sunday, by that time it was Daylight, the rest of the Army drew up in order of Battle, and took their Leaves of the Spaniards in a very polite Manner, by causing a very German Tune to be play'd by all their Military Bands. After continuing for some Time in this Posture, perceiving the Spaniards not in the Humour to ho- nour them with their Company, they march'd off, drums beating, and Colours flying; and arriv'd the next Day, about 17 o'Clock, at the Gates of this City; from whence, continuing their March, they reach'd Ponte- asse about the Hour of 21: The Spanish Army follow'd them so close, that their Van Guard appear'd within Three Quarters of an Hour after the Rear of the Austrians had pass'd this City; and they reach'd the River, while the others were passing it. The Austrians taken the Precaution to have three Pieces of heavy Cannon on the Middle of the Bridge; some Field Pieces in the Tower which covers it; all the Eminencies lin'd with their Troops; and a Battery or two near the Banks of the River. The Spaniards durst not attack them in this Posture, but remain'd on this Side the River, can- nonading them all Monday Night, all Tuesday, and the Night following; in which the Austrians with drew their Cannon, and incamp'd about six Miles from hence. This cannonading, the Austrians lost about 200 Men, and the Spaniards 300. The latter having repair'd the Bridge of Ponte Molle, pass'd the Tiber, with Intent, as it is said, not to allow the Enemy a Moment's Quiet, but to endeavour, by all Means, to come up with them, and force them to a general Engagement. We have Reason, however, to believe, that this Disposition of theirs will not last long; for the King of the Two Sicilies having paid his Respects to the Pope, is gone with his Guards to the Queen, at Cayeta, whither his Army will probably follow him.

Vienna, Nov. 11. The States of the Lower Austria open'd their annual Sessions Yesterday, with the ac- custom'd Ceremonies; the Queen having sent them an Account of her Demands, held a Council of State here, and then return'd to Schoenbrunn. The Post from Silesia, which arriv'd this Day, brought three Letters from the King of Prussia; one directed to the Queen, another to the Duke Co-Regent, and the Third to the Empress Dowager. This Incident occasion'd great Speculations at first, but it was soon after known, that these Letters contain'd nothing more, than the Notification that the Princess Royal was brought to Bed. Her Majesty has given the Command of the Body of Troops belonging to the late Col. Mentzel, to Count Bartheloni, who quits the important Post of Intendant of the Salt Duties, to serve the Queen in a Military Capacity. General Count Bothiani has been lately reinforced by six or 7000 Men; and we are not in much Pain, for any thing the Enemy can do on that Side.

From the Austrian Camp at Kutenberg, November. 11. The Enemy pass'd the Elbe last Night, except 1200 Men that are posted at Kolin; their Army is, at present, canton'd among the Villages on the other Side the River, and in an adjacent Wood; which Position of theirs, join'd to the advanc'd Season of the Year, and the extreme Bad- ness of the Roads, hinders our Hussars from harassing them as they otherwise would. His Highness has order'd the necessary Dispositions to be made for attacking Kolin and Pardubitz, the only two Places of which they are now possess'd on this Side the River; and in the latter of which, they have all their Magazines; as also, for pass'd the Elbe as soon as their Posts can be forc'd; so that it is not impossible that a Battle may yet happen be- fore the Close of the Campaign.

Dresden, November 13. As there is Reason to appre- hend, that the Prussians may make some Attempt upon this Electorate, the Regency have taken the necessary Pre- cautions for preventing it, by causing the Fortifications of this City, and of Wurtemberg, to be put into the best Condition possible. We have likewise Advice, by an Express from our Army in Bohemia, that the Duke de Saxe Weissenfels has put himself in march for our Fron- tiers, in order to cover them. That we may be still the more secure, Arms have been deliver'd to all the Work- men employ'd in the Mines, who are a hardy Sort of People; and they, together with their Militia, are to form a Line along the Mountains of Lusitania; so that we reckon to have speedily in this Electorate 26,000 fresh Troops, ready to obey the Orders we have receiv'd from his Majesty, to repel Force by Force. Orders have been this Day issued, for stopping all Boats and Carriages that shall attempt to carry Provisions to the Prussians.

Munich, Nov. 17. It is impossible to Express the Sur- prise with which we have learn'd the News, that the Chapter of the City of Saltzbourg have receiv'd a Body of Austrian Forces into their City. His Imperial Majesty considers it as so great an Affront, that he has actually sent the Prince of Saxe Hildburghausen, with a Corps of Imperialists, to demand the Reason of it. The Count de St. Germain has retaken the Salt Mines at Reichenhall; and has either kill'd, or made Prisoners of War, about 100 Austrians who were in the Place. The Imperial Army continues still at Willshoven; and it is thought the Troops will go speedily into Winter Quarters. There was a little Skirmish on the 14th, in the Neighbourhood of Passau, in which they were oblig'd to retire, with some Loss.

Frankfort, Nov. 20. The Empress's Journey, which was fix'd for this Day, is put off to next Week. Three Columns of the French Troops are in full March for this City; the Fourth cannot move till the Queen of Hun- gary's Resolution is known, as to the Castles of Fribourg; the Ministers of the Electors and Princes, who have not enter'd into the Treaty of Union, hold frequent Confe- rences together; which are suppos'd to turn on the Ap- proach of the French Army; with respect to which, his most Christian Majesty has been pleas'd to declare, that, in order to facilitate the Operations of the next Campaign, he has judg'd it necessary to send 50,000 Men to guard the Rhine, from Mentz to Dusseldorp and Bonn; and to have also another considerable Corps of Troops, from Bingen to Treves, in order to cover the Moselle; the true Reason of the Uneasiness of the Prince who have not thought fit to enter into the Treaty of Union, is their Apprehension, that these French Troops may take their Quarters in such a Manner, as to revenge, on them, their not entering into that Treaty.

Hague, November 27. M. de Dieu, who is making Preparations for his Journey to Moscow, was introduc'd this Morning into the Assembly of their High Mighti- nesses, by the Count de Bentinck. Mr. Francis Hagel has demand'd Leave of their High Mightinesses to re- sign the high Office of Secretary of State, which he has now enjoy'd 58 Years, and discharg'd it with the greatest Reputation, as to Capacity, Diligence, and Pro- bity, being rais'd to it in the Year 1686. The sole Reason of his resigning, is his great Age, being now 87. The Baron de Aylva is nam'd by their High Mighti- nesses to execute a Commission of Importance at certain German Courts.

To the AUTHOR, &amp;c.

S I R,

LOTTERIES having, within these few Years, been more frequent, and Lottery Offices more nume- rous, than formerly, has led me, who have little else to do than amuse myself, with being a Spectator of the Actions of the rest of Mankind, to make several Obser- vations concerning them. And I have remark'd nothing with more Admiration, than the surprizing Credulity that appears in purchasing Chances, Shares of Tickets, and Shares of Chances, or any Body, without Enquiry; which, as the Ticket is left in the Hands of the Seller, is trusting, as a Banker, with, perhaps, 10 or 20,000 l. Persons who are entirely unknown; or being known, no Body would credit with Five Shillings. As the Pub- lick has been greatly impos'd upon by Some in this Way, I should think common Sense should dictate to every one to enquire of what Character, and Substance, they are, with whom they deal, in indulging the Humour of be- ing in Fortune's Way, that they may not be disappoint- ed. If I err in my Sentiments, I hope the good Inten- tion will be excus'd in

PUBLICUS.
